DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

214 Strawberry Alley is a mid 19th two story two bay (on first floor) frame dwelling, covered with natural wood shingles. A two story wing on the rear gives the entire structure a T-shape. The house faces east on Strawberry Alley between Bourbon and Fountain Streets.

Across the front elevation is a two story, four bay porch with a shed roof supported by slender chamfered posts. The railing on the second floor has been replaced with metal. The second story, south elevation, overhangs the first story, forming a porch which is presently unsupported.

Windows throughout the house have 6/6 light double hung sash, framed with wide boards.

The main entrance, in the north bay front elevation, has a modern hollow core door. A four panel door is found in the center of the second story.

The main section has a moderately steep gable flank roof, covered with asphalt with the wing roof perpendicular to it. Both roofs are covered with asphalt shingles. The main section has a center chimney and the wing has a chimney on the west end.

There is a yard in back of the house.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Alley houses have a special place in the architectural history as well as the Black history of Havre de Grace. The Strawberry Alley house is a two story L-shaped frame structure, covered with brown shingles, having three bays on the second floor and two on the first. The nicest feature of the house is a two story front porch with a shed roof. Because they are considered to be sub-standard housing, many dwellings on alleys have been torn down. Clusters of dwellings remain on Freedom, Centennial, Linden and Hopper Alleys for example.

A structure is shown at this location with the name Smith or Snanth beside it on the Herrick Map of Harford County-1858. It is one of the only buildings located on an alley which has a name beside it shown on the map.

Other houses on alleys included in the Survey are Ha-818 and HA-822.
